Q1 Read the given passage carefully.

Robot Bully by Vikki Petraitis

1 Nathan had been in the children's home for just two days before Buster McFee noticed him. And not in a good way. It all started when he took the last piece of toast in the line for breakfast. Buster McFee, a big mean kid, was behind Nathan in the line. The minute Nathan sat 5 down, there was Buster looming in front of him.
"The last piece of toast is always mine," he said in a low menacing voice.
'I didn't know-' began Nathan, staring up into Buster's piggy eyes.
10 'Well next time you'll know,' Buster snarled.
He stormed off, leaving Nathan alone with a boy named Pipsqueak.
'He's such a bully,' said Pipsqueak, watching Buster's retreating bulk. 'You should teach him a lesson.' 15 'How?' said Nathan, glumly. In that moment, he had a brilliant idea!
All the kids from the orphanage went to classes at the local university to participate in a robotics program. While most kids struggled to program their robots to move, Nathan was a computer 20 genius; his robot could dance. The last class was today. Nathan grinned.

When the teacher asked each kid to show what their robot could do, it was all pretty amateurish until it was Nathan's turn. He stood 25 facing his robot so the kids couldn't see it and when he stepped back, the robot had a sticky-note on its middle: 'Buster'. In one of its robot hands, it held a piece of toast. The real Buster's face went red with rage. Nathan pressed a button and MC Hammer's U Can't Touch This started playing. Robot Buster waved around the piece of toast and 30 danced.

Buster let out a roar, and Nathan ran.

Dear Sir,

Subject: Human Dependence on Technology.

Through this letter of mine, I wish to draw the attention of everyone towards the increased dependence of humans on technology. We use the internet for any type of information which we find only a click away. Everyone, whether a child or an adult, wants gadgets like cell phones, I-pod, laptops, etc. No doubt, technology is a boon to mankind and has a great future ahead. But in my opinion, we should not depend on it as an excess of everything is bad. It is making everyone lazy.

On the other hand, cyber-crimes are also growing. The keyword for this is caution. We must make judicious use of technology and should not totally depend on it. We must believe in natural and simple living.

I hope you will publish this letter in your newspaper for a better future for human beings.

Thanking you.

Yours faithfully
