QUESTION BANK – MIJBIL THE OTTER

Sub: ENGLISH

Short Answer Questions:

1. When did Gavin Maxwell decide to have an otter as a pet?

When Gavin Maxwell was in Southern Iraq, he thought that he should keep an otter as a pet instead of a dog. The place where he was living was suitable for that experiment.

2. What are the exclusive features/habits of an otter?

An otter is a fun-loving animal. They are found in abundance near fresh water. They love the flowing water. An otter is an intelligent animal and capable of inventing new games.

3. Why did Gavin Maxwell stay in Basra for five days?

Gavin Maxwell went to Basra to the Consulate General to collect and answer his mail from Europe. His mail didn't arrive on time. He cabled to England, and when three days later, no response was received, he tried to telephone. But the exchange was closed for a religious holiday. His mail arrived five days later. So, he had to wait for a few days.

4. How did Maxwell get an otter?

Maxwell expressed his desire to his friend to have an otter as a pet. His friend sent two Arabs with an otter to Basra. This is how he got an otter in Basra.

5. When did Maxwell realise that otter loved water?

One day Maxwell took the otter in the bathroom. The otter jumped with joy into the bathtub. It remained there for a long time. Seeing the otter's movement, Maxwell realized that the otter loved the water.

6. What did Mijbil, the otter, do in the bathroom after two days of his arrival?

Mijbil, the otter was a fun-loving intelligent animal. He loved the water. On the first day, he went wild with joy in the water. Next day, Mijbil escaped from the bedroom and entered the bathroom. He struggled with the tap till it had a full flow of water.

7. How did Mij invite the attention of the teachers and the students of a primary school in London?

There was a primary school opposite to Maxwell's house. It was a single storey building. It had a wall of thirty yards. It was only two feet in height. Mij used to jump and run over it at full speed. This always distracted the teachers and the students of the school.

8. What did the Londoners think about Mijbil the otter?

Mijbil, the otter was a new creature for the Londoners. They had never seen such a pet in their life. They guessed that it belonged to a small group of animals called mustellines. Some of them guessed it a small walrus or a baby seal. Some called it a hippo and a brontosaurus.

LONG ANSWER QUESTIONS:

1. The narrator is a great lover animals. He decided to have an otter, a unique animal, as a pet. Do you also have or want to keep a pet? There are many responsibilities towards the pet to keep them happy. How do you take good care of your pet?

For, some people, life without a pet is lonely. The same happened with the narrator. When his pet dog died, he became extremely sad. To overcome his grief, he decided to have an otter as a pet. This shows his great love for all animals. I also have a pet dog, Bruno. I take great care of him and am aware of my responsibilities towards him. A pet must be treated as a member of the family. It should be regularly vaccinated by a trained vet. A pet, like a dog and a cat, needs proper toilet training and must be taught to obey your instructions. A balanced diet is a must for a pet to keep it healthy. A pet should not be chained all the time. It can make it more aggressive. Remember, a daily dose of exercise, affection and playful activities work wonders for a pet. And, more importantly, all the members of a family should be considerate towards it.

2. how did the narrator feel when he saw blood trickling down the box in which Mijbil had been kept to transport to England? How would you feel if you were in such a situation? What traits of the narrator's character are reflected here?

When Mij was to be transported to England, and to Camusfearna, the narrator got tensed at the prospect. Mij was packed in a box with air holes in order to be taken by an airline. Just before leaving the home for the airport, the narrator was shocked to see traces of blood all around the box. Mijbil, in an attempt to be freed and fumbled with the box and injured himself. The narrator removed the iron lining with its cutting edges and again put Mijbil back in it. During the flight, though Mijbil, caused a ruckus, the narrator resumed his journey with Mijbil on his knees.

I would also feel in the same manner if I were in the narrator's place. Seeing a pet in distress is the least wanted thing. The incident revealed the narrator's extremely caring and compassionate nature. He was indeed a man with boundless kindness. We all must have the value of compassion and kindness for all living creatures.

3. What do you think is the purpose of the narrator to write in detail his relationship with his pet otter? What are the ethics to be observed with animals-either wild or pet?

The narrator has revealed some interesting facts regarding his pet, Mijbil the otter. The main purpose behind this is to arouse feeling of empathy and concern for pets as well as wild animals. The text compels us to think about many other situations where animals are kept in captivity just for amusement without thinking of the animal's welfare. For example, elephants, bears, lions and tigers are trained to work in a circus in the most inhumane manner. Jugglers keep monkeys and snakes captive to earn a living. All these practices are illegal according to law. Any animal, either wild or pet, is useful to us in one way or the other. Pet animals protect our houses, carry loads for us, provide us with milk and meat, entertain us etc. Wild animals in a forest form a food chain that is essential to maintain a balance in the ecosystem. So we all must adopt a positive approach while dealing with animals.

4. For smooth and effective working, we have to follow certain rules and regulations. Sometimes basic human values don't go together with rules. It is painful. But there are some people like the air hostess in the story 'Mijbil the otter', who tried to act against the rules in the name of humanity. What qualities do we find in the air hostess? What would you have done if you were in her place?

It is true that for smooth and effective working, we have to follow certain rules and regulations. Sometimes basic human values don't go together with rules. It is painful. But there are some people like the air hostess in the story 'Mijbil the otter', who tried to act against the rules in the name of humanity. The air hostess was the embodiment of good qualities. When Gavin Maxwell told her about the otter, she listened to his story very peacefully. She was the queen of her kind. Though it was against the rules to carry the animal in that way, yet she decided to help him. She even suggested that he could keep the pet in his knee. She was always kind-hearted and considerate. She handled the whole situation calmly. When Mij created trouble with squeaks and shrieks, she maintained her charming smile. She displayed basic human qualities while on her duty. Yes, I would have done the same. If there is no risk to the life and property of others, we may compromise with rules and regulations for the sake of humanity.
